Retraction of "Van Ginkel, J. R., & Kroonenberg, P. M. (2020). Much ado about nothing: Multiple imputation to balance unbalanced designs for two-way analysis of variance"

The following article has been retracted by agreement between the authors, the Editors-in-Chief (Jost Reinecke, José-Luis Padilla) and the publisher of the journal (Leibniz Institute for Psychology):

> Van Ginkel, J. R., & Kroonenberg, P. M. (2020). Much ado about nothing: Multiple imputation to balance unbalanced designs for two-way analysis of variance. Methodology, 16(4), 335-353. https://doi.org/10.5964/meth.4327

The authors report: "After publication we detected a programming error in the code used to calculated the D_1 statistic. When corrected the main conclusions of the article no longer hold. We therefore wish to withdraw the article and apologize for any confusion caused by this error."

The journal's Editors-in-Chief have invited the authors to submit a corrected version of the retracted article which will be re-reviewed and, if accepted, published in a future issue.

Methodology is the official journal of the European Association of Methodology (EAM).
